

Fly, Eagle, Fly

Original Title: Fliag, Vogel, fliag

German Music And Lyrics: Martin Hoffmann

English Lyrics by Chris Cutter, Music/Arrangements by Rob, April 2009

Verse 1

You are so young and full of power, believin' in eternity.
Your hair don' t wither like a flower, you guess there' s endless time for free.
For you there' s only black or white, for you a grey is never nice.
A warning 's always wrong not right, your heart is burning or it turnes to ice.

Chorus

Fly, eagle, fly, break the wall, fly high and free!
Fly, eagle, fly, unload your pain and cry!
Fly, eagle, fly, don' t let people cut your pride!
Fly, eagle, fly, into the southern sky!

Verse 2

You call your buddy boring fellow, how much 's the world I'm gonna buy?
Supersized heart still shouting 'hello', while filling up with every girl and guy!
Everyone but you 's a loser, it' s consequence you' re living for.
You have your problems like the others, the difference is you do ignore.

Chorus

Guitar Solo

Verse 3

You trust yourself none will beat you, and challenge 's gleaming in your face.
You 're iron strong nothing will form you, you never lose but win the race.
So let 's not talk sophisticated, 'bout what a wise man says is true.
Life has two big hands help related, when time has come, they 're hittin' you
